TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. How They Managed.

'Pack up your things as soon as you please, my dear,' said Mr. Chesney. 'We're going to move on Saturday.'

Mr. and Mrs. Chesney were a matrimonial firm—there was no question about that—but Mrs. Chesney had always been a silent partner in the same.

('If ever I get married,' said Elma, a bright-eyed girl of seventeen, 'I won't be put upon as Mamma is!' 'Papa is a regular despot—that's what papa is!' decided Will, a tall stripling of fifteen.'

'Where, my dear?' asked Mrs. Chesney, with a little start.

'Into the country,' said the family autocrat. 'I'm tired of this city business. It costs a great deal more than it comes to. I'm told you can live at half the expense in the country.'

'But,' gasped Mrs. Chesney, 'what is to become of the children's education?'

'There's a very good district school in the neighborhood, not more than a mile distant,' explained her husband, 'and exercise will do them good.'

'And what are we to do for society?'

'Pshaw!' said Chesney. 'I would not give a rap for people who can't be society for themselves. There'll be the housework to do, you know—nobody keeps a girl in the country—and plenty of chores about the place for Will and Spencer. I shall keep a horse, if I can get one cheap, for the station is half a a mile from the place, and I've bargained for a couple of cows and some pigs.'

Will and Spencer looked askance at each other.

'It'll do us good to walk a mile to school,' muttered the elder; but father must have a horse to carry him half a mile to station.'

'That's father's logic all over,' observed Spencer.

While Mr. Chesney explained to his wife the various advantages which were to accrue from the promised move.

'It's unfortunate,' said he, 'that Elma and Rosie arn't boys. Such a lot of women folks are enough to swamp any family. Men, now, can always earn their own bread. But we must try to make everybody useful in some way or other. It's so healthy, you know.' added he. 'And the rent won't be half of what we pay here.

'Are their any modern conveniences about the place? timidly inquired Mrs. Chesney.

'There's a spring of excellent water about a hundred yards from the house,' said her husband.

Mrs. Chesney grew pale.

'Have I got to walk a hundred yards for every drop of water I want?' said she.

'And a large rain-water hogshead under the eaves of the house," added Mr. Chesney. 'And I've already got a bargain in kerosene lamps. As for candles, I am given to understand that the good housekeepers thereabouts make 'em themselves in tin molds. There's nothing like economy. Now I do beg to know Abigail,' he added, irritably, 'what are you looking so lackadaisical about? Do you expect to sit still and fold your hands, while I do all the work? Give me a woman for sheer natural laziness!'

'I am not lazy, George,' said the poor wife, with a bewildered air; 'but—all this is so new and strange at first. But I'll try to get accustomed to it—I'll try my very best.'

Nevertheless, Rossie and Elma and their mother shed many a salt tear into the trunks and packing-boxes, on top of the woolen blankets and rugs and piles of domestic linen.

'I hate the country!' said Elma. 'I'd as soon go to prison and done with it.'

'Oh, Ellie, don't talk so,' said Rose. 'There are wild-roses and robins there, just as one sees on the painted plaques in the store windows. And perhaps we can have a flower-bed, and some little downy chickens!'

But the first sight of Mulleinstalk Farm was dispiriting in the expreme. Between rock and swamp, there was scarcely pasture for the two lean cows that Mr. Chesney had bought at 'a bargain,' and the hollow-backed horse, which stalked about the premises like some phantom Bucephalus.

The apple-trees in the orchard were three-quarters dead, and leaned sorrowfully away from the last winds, until their boughs touched the very ground; the fences were all going to ruin, and the front gate was tied up with a hemp string.

'Is this home?' said Elma, with an indescribable intonation in her voice.

'We'll get things all straightened up, after awhile,' said Mr. Chesney, bustling to drive away the pigs, who had broken out of their pen and were squealing dismally under the window.

Mrs. Chesney cried herself to sleep that night, and awakened the next morning with every bone instinct with shooting pains.

'And no wonder,' said Spencer. 'There's a foot of water in the cellar.'

'We must have it drained,' said Mr. Chesney, with an uneasy look; 'but there's plenty of things to do first.

And now began a reign of the strictest economy. Mr. Chesney himself paid for everything with checks, and not an article came into the house or out of it without his cognizance. New dresses were frowned upon; spring bonnets were strictly interdicted; orders were issued that old carpets should be reserved, and broken dishes repaired with cement and quicklime.

'Save, save, save! That is the chief thing,' he kept repeating, briskly. 'Women-folks can't earn; they should try their best to save.'

'It's all very well for papa,' growled Will. 'He goes to the city every day and sees something besides the pigs and the dead apple-trees. He orders a new suit when he needs it. Look at mamma's patched gown and Rosie's dyed bonnet-strings! Why, they can't even go to church, they are such objects! He gets his lunch at a restaurant, and we eat cold beans, and drink dandelion coffe and sage tea!'

'Boys,' fluttered Rosie, 'I've an idea. Mary Penn, who lives on the next farm, you know, came to see Elma and me yesterday. Papa is earning his living; we'll earn something, too.'

'I should like to know how,' muttered Spencer. 'I might hire out somewhere as farm hand, if it was'nt for that wretched old horse, and the pigs, and the wood-chopping, and—'

'Oh, but there is something that won't interfere with the chores, nor with school!' said cheerful little Rosie. 'Just listen—all I ask of you is to listen!'

And the weeks grew into months, and the red leaves eddied down in little swirls from the little maple trees, and 'pig-killing time' came, and, with the aid of a lame, one-eyed man, Mr. Chesney, laid down his own stock of pork and sausages for the winter with the sense of being triumphantly economical.

The family had left off complaining now. Apparently they were resigned to their doom. But there was some things that Mr. Chesney could not explain at all.

A new rug brightened up the dismal hues of their parlor carpet; Rosie had a crimson merino dress, trimmed with black velvet bars; Elma's jacket was edged with substantial black fur; and—grand grand climax of extravagance—Mrs. Chesney had a new shawl, in place of the old broche garment which had been her mother's before her!

He looked over the housekeeping books with renewed vigilance, he consulted the stubs of his check-book with a glance that nothing could escape.

'I—don't—know—how—they—manage it,' said he, scratching his nose with the lead-pencil that he always carried. 'I hate mysteries, and I mean to be at the bottom of this before I'm an hour older.'

He took his account-book under his arm and marched into the kitchen, where his wife was clearing away the late supper.

'Abigail,' said he, 'how is this? I've given you no money. You've long left off asking for money. How have you managed to smarten yourself and the children up so? I won't be cheated by own wife!'

Elma set down the pitcher which she was wiping, and came and stood before her father with glittering eyes and cheeks stained with crimson, like a flag of battle.

'Papa,' she said, 'you must not speak to mamma so. Mamma would not cheat you nor anybody else. It's money that we have earned ourselves. There! Now!'

Mr. Chesney stared at the girl with incredulous eyes.

'And if you don' believe it, come and see how,' said Elma, flinging down her towel. 'Mary Penn showed us. She told us everything, and gave us the first swarm of bees. There are fourteen hives down under the south wall. Spencer sold the honey for us; and we planted all the nice flowers that grow down in the meadow, that you said was too stony and barren even for the sheep to pasture upon, and Will dug and hoed around them after the chores were all done, and we sent boxes and bouquets of lillies and verbenas to the city every day by Mr. Penn's wagon. And we gathered wild strawberries before the sun was up, and got cherries out of the old lane, and the money is all ours—every cent of it!'

'Honey, eh?' said Mr. Chesney, staring at the row of hives, for Elma had dragged him out into the November moonlight to the scene of action. 'Well, I've seen these many a time, but I always s'posed they belonged to Squire Penn's folks. And flowers, and wild berries! Didn't think there was so much money in 'em. Guess I'll try the business myself next year. Queer that the women-folks should have got the start of me!'

And after that he regarded his family with more respect. The mere fact that they could earn money had elevated them immensely in his sight.

But when spring came he lost his able coadjutor.

Miss Elma incidentally announced to him one day that she was going to be married to Walter Penn the next week.

'And mamma is coming to live with us,' added Elma. 'She can't stand the damp house and this hard work any longer.'

But Mrs. Chesney did not go to the Penn Farm. Mr. Chesney hired a stout serving-maid, and laid drain-pipes under the kitchen stoop.

If his wife really understood her business so well, it was worth while to keep her well and active, he considered.

'I couldn't well leave papa, you know,' said Mrs. Chesney to Elma. 'He means well, and now that Rebecca Beckel is coming here, and the kitchen is dry, we shall get along nicely. I wouldn't go back to the city for anything now.'

'Nor I, either,' said Elma. 'And oh, mamma, I shall always love those beehives under the holly-hocks, for it was there that Walter asked me to be his wife!'

And Mrs. Chesney tearfully kissed her daughter. She, too, had been happy once, and had her dreams.

It was to be hoped that Walter Penn was made of different metal from George Chesney.

To Elma, however, all the world was couler de rose. Had she not the eternal talisman of Youth and Love?—Helen Forrest Graves in Saturday Night.

A Level Headed Chemist.

What might have proved a very tragical occurrence was adroitly nipped in the bud the other day by a Parisian chemist. An elegantly dressed young woman, wearing a thick veil over her face, went into a pharmacentical establishment at Clichy and asked for a phial of vitriol. The chemist, whose suspicions were aroused by the mysterious manner of his fair customer, asked her some questions, to which she returned evasive replies. He then gave her, instead of vitriol, a bottle of perfumed water, and directed a man to follow the fair damsel and to watch her movements. The amateur detective did so, and soon saw the woman take up her position at a street corner, phial in hand. After having carefully uncorked the bottle, she waited, and, as a young man well-known in the neighborhood passed by, she flung its contents, with a yell of triumph, in his face. The man received the perfumed water in his eyes, but, although it only made him smart for a moment, he roared like a bull of Bashan, and cried out that he was blinded forever. Meanwhile, the emulator of Marie Beer, who thought she had inflicted a terrible punishment on her false-hearted Adonis, ran away with the speed of an Atlanta, vainly pursued by some of the bystanders who had witnessed the scene. The chemist's man, however, set every body's mind at ease by describing the pious fraud employed by his master for the prevention of another Parisian drama. — Boston Post.

A Modern Xantippe.

Jim Akers was a small, tow-headed, knock-kneed man, with irregular teeth, which made his mouth look like a steel trap twisted out of plumb, says the "Southern Bivouac." His wife was a large, raw-boned woman, fully a head taller and fifty pounds heavier than Jim. She had the temper of a half-famished wildcat, and no darky just "gittin' religion" was ever half as much afraid of the devil as Jim was of her; he had reason to be. When she was fairly on the war-path she breathed chain lightning and flung cyclones from the tip of her tongue. Nor did she content herself with words only, however bitter and furious. She very often brushed the poor little wretch with a hickory until he felt as if he had borrowed, his back of a saint fresh from the grindiron.

One bright, golden, delicious afternoon in the latter part of May, Jim left the patch where he had been hard at work all day and "snuck een" to his cabin by the back way. He proceeded hastily to doff his every-day clothes and don his Sunday garments, casting furtive glances all the while at the black-browed, terrible dame sitting in the front doorway knitting. With trembling haste he completed his preparations and was shambling out again, when his wife, previously apparently of his presence, shot a fierce glance at him, which made him jump almost out of his shoes and brought the perspiration out from every pore.

'Whar you boun' fur?' she asked.

'I 'lowed I wuz gwine down to the fish-fry fur a hour or two. Them boys is a hevin'——'

'Well, you 'lowed wrong. You jest histe off them close and go back inter that patch and finish hoein' them pertaters. Don't you distress yerself 'bout no fish-fries.'

'But I tole the boys I wuz gwine to be thar.'

'Well, you tole 'em a lie.'

'But Ed Sykes and Hank Evans is a waitin' fur me now at the cross roads, and I'd ruther not disappoint 'em.'

'Well, I'd ruther you would. Shet up, now, and do ez you're told.'

Jim gasped and quaked with fear; but, for the first time in many years, he thoroughly realized the tyranny under which he was crushed. His heart was set on going to a fish-fry, and in that feeble, fluttering little organ a faint shadow, a dim eidolon of spirit became suddenly aroused. He hesitated a moment, ventured even to return the gaze of those glowing, wrathful eyes, and then started, saying:

'Well, I'm a-gwine.'

Great Jehosaphat! Houp-la!

She swooped on him like an owl on a mouse. The air was filled and darkened with dust and sandy hair and agonizing shrieks.

Ed Sykes and Hank Evans, at the "crossroads," became convinced that Jim's cabin had caught fire, and that he was perishing in the flames. They rushed in all haste to his assistance, but as they neared the spot the clatter subsided, and they heard a stern, feminine voice, which caused them to halt and keep out of sight, say:

'Now I reckon you'll do ez yer tole.'

Then they recognized Jim's piping voice, protesting between convulsive sobs:

'I'd sorter give out gwine befo' you spoke.'

Sherman and the Youngest Soldier

General Sherman is famous for his brusque manners. He has never allowed the effete and luxuriant East to tame his wild Western nature. A few years ago he was at a big meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic at St. Louis, when a young man approached him and said:

'General, you don't know me, but I have known you for a long time. I suppose I was the youngest soldier who served with you during the war, and I want to shake hands with my old commander.' Gen. Sherman looked at the young man a moment and said, 'My friend, I suppose at least 1000 men have claimed the honor of being the youngest of my soldiers. How old were you when you entered the service?'

'I was just 13,' was the response.

'Well, if you were only 13,' said General Sherman, 'all I have to say is that you had better stayed at home with your mother.'

Amusing a Millionaire.

A famous millionaire sat on the edge of a table in the Casino at Newport one night and stared at his boots in dismay.

'Yaw!' he yawned in an excess of boredom as he raised his eyebrows and rammed his hands deep into his pockets, 'It's slow; monstrously slow.'

Apparently it was. One or two men in faultless attire smoked near the window. Others sprawled in languid desperation in the deep arm-chairs, and an eminent stock speculator added drowsiness to it by snoring with subtle but penetrating regularity in the corner. It was a sultry night, and the negro waiters mopped their black faces as they whispered together in the corridor. The ennuied millionaire could almost hear the lapping of the water in the harbor against the sides of his beautiful steam-yacht. His horses moved uneasily in the heat without and rattled the big pole chain impatiently.

It was nearly midnight in the Queen of American watering-places and nothing was going on. The millionaire kicked his heels peevishly against the table and motioned to one of the waiters. They all scrambled forward in such haste that the oldest one slipped and almost fell. The great man smiled, whereat a wave of joy passed over the dusky group, and all but one retired with teeth in full review. Who is unhappy when a millionaire smiles? 'Is the campagne well iced?' asked the man of means, good naturedly.

'It is indeed, sah. De las' bot'le wuz froze dead hard'.

'Bring me some.'

When the waiter poured it out it was so cold that it dribbled slowly into the glass and sent up a milk white mist almost as thick as foam that raced to the top of the glasses, while the dew gathered in beads on the bottle. The millionaire smiled gently as he gazed at the campagne, and then he glanced at the panting waiter.

'Would you like to shiver, Thomas?' he asked solemnly.

'Me, sah?' said the waiter with a chuckle. 'Dere aint not'in in dis heah wuld ud make me shivah t'night sah— no'n' deedy.,

'Oh, yes, there is.'

'Scush me, sah, but I'm roastin', I am; n' I don' b'lieve I'll evah' be col' again.'

'I'll make you shiver in two minutes by the watch, or I'll give you fifty dollars.'

'Go ahead, sah!'

Without more ado the milloinaire took the champagne bottle from the other's hand, turned it upside down thrust it calmy down the back of the darkey's neck, and left it there while the campagne dripped gently down the waiter's spine. Then watch in hand, he waited while the loungers sat up, and the waiters moved in from the corridors with their eyes fairly starting from their heads.

'Don' you shivah, yo fool,' said the foremost of them in a hoarse whisper to Thomas. "F y' do I'll —I'll kick yo' head offen y' body shuh! Y' got a chance f'ter pay me dem seving dollahs now, an' if y' miss I'll lam y'— I will fer a fac'.

Meanwhile the waiter stood there with pursed lips, staring eyes, and clenched fists. His head bent forward, and his legs spread apart, while his breath came in snorts. The loungers were crowding round with their watches in their hands making bets rapidly, while the time wore slowly away. Presently the millicnaire shouted:

One minute!

Oh! moaned Thomas in a voice like the soulful roar of a cavern by the sea,

'I'm a-goin, I'm agoin!'

Remember dem seving dollyehs!

There was an awful hush, the sound of the grinding of teeth, a wild 'Huh-wu-wu-whoooo!' followed by helpless chattering, and Thomas stood shaking like an aspen leaf, with one eye turned appealingly on the seven dollar man, while the other sought the face of the millionaire. One after another the waiters assayed the test, and for two hours the Casino was the liveliest spot in America. Then the famous millionaire climbed contentedly to the seat of his cart, and murmured as he drove homeward in the moonlight, 'It wasn't so monstrously slow after all.'—New York World.

"Don't You Worry."

How Shrewd Business Men Have Solved a Great Problem.

"Is there a fatality among our prominent men?" is a question that we often ask. It is a question that perplexes our leading medical men, and they are at a loss to know how to answer it.

We sometimes think that if the physicians would give part of the energy to the consideration of this question that they give to combating other schools of practice, it might be satisfactorily answered.

The fights of "isms" reminds us often of the quarrels of old Indian tribes, that they were only happy when they were annihilating each other.

If Allopathy makes a discovery that promises good to the race, Homœopathy derides it and breakes down its influence. If Homœopathy makes a discovery that promises to be a boon to the race, Allopathy attacks it.

It is absurd that these schools should fancy that all of good is in their methods and none in any other.

Fortunately for the people, the merit which these "isms" will not recognize, is recognized by the public, and this public recognition, taking the form of a demand upon the medical profession, eventually compels it to recognize it.

Is it possible that the question has been answered by shrewd business men? A prominent man once said to an inquirer, who asked him how he got rich, "I got rich because I did things while other people were thinking about doing them." It seems to us that the people have recognized what this fatility is, and how it can be met, while the medical profession have been wrangling about it.

By a careful examination of insurance reports we find that there has been a sharp reform with reference to examinations [and that no man can now get any amount of insurance who has the least development of kidney disorder] because they find that sixty out of every hundred in this country do, either directly or indirectly, suffer from kidney disease. Hence, no reliable company will insure a man except after a rigid urinary examination.

This reminds us of a little instance which occurred a short time ago. A fellow editor was an applicant for a respectable amount of insurance. He was rejected on examination, because, unknown to himself, his kidneys were diseased. The shrewd agent, however, did not give up the case. He had an eye to business and to his commission, and said: "Don't you worry; you get half a dozen bottles of Warner's safe cure—all dealers keep it—take it according to directions and in about a month come around, and we will have another examination. I know you will find yourself all right and will get your policy."

The editor expressed surprise at the agent's faith, but the latter replied, "This point is a valuable one. Very many insurance agents all over the country, when they find a customer rejected for this cause, give him similar advice, and eventually he gets the insurance."

What are we to infer from such circumstances? Have shrewd insurance men, as well as other shrewd business men, found the secret answer to the inquiry? Is it pessible that our columns have been proclaiming, in the form of advertisements, what has proved a blessing in disguise to millions, and yet by many ignored as an advertisement?

In our files we find thousands of strong testimonials for Warner's safe cure, no two alike, which could not exist except upon a basis of truth; indeed, they are published under a guarantee of $5.000 to any one who will disprove their correctness, and this offer has been standing, we are told, for more than four years.

Undoubtedly this article, which is simply dealing out justice, will be considered as an advertisement and be rejected by many as such.

We have not space nor time to discuss the proposition that a poor thing could not succeed to the extent that this great remedy has succeeded, could not become so popular without merit even if pushed by a Vanderbilt or an Astor.

Hence we take the liberty of telling our friends that it is a duty that they owe to themselves to investigate the matter and reflect carefully, for the statements published are subject to the refutation of the entire world. None have refuted them; on the contrary, hundreds of thousands have believed them and proved them true, and in believing have found the highest measure of satisfaction, that which money cannot buy, and money cannot take away

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

H. Y. STITZER, Secretary. JAMES A. McCLAIN, Chairman.

THE treasury department is informed that many of the trade dollars presented for redemption at New York have been filled so skillfully as to almost defy detection.

THE legis ture of New Jersey proposes to allow women to vote for school directors says the Harrisburg Patriot, and adds that this is eminently proper, but dosen't go far enough. If the womenof the state had the right to vote for members of the legislature the probabilities are that the standard of statesmanship in that commonwealth would be improved.

THERE seems to be a general disposition favoring the location of new capitol buildings, ifsuch are to be erected, at Bellefonte. Hon. J. A. Woodwar done of the representatives from this county, was the first to offer a resolution to that effect in the House, but the legislature did not seem to be ready for the question and tabled the resolution. Since then the press and the people have strongly expressed themselves in favor of Bellefonte, as a suitable and convenient place for the state capitol, and it looks as if the matter might assume a tangible shape. It is beyond dispute that the capital of Centre county is just as well adapted for the capitol of Pennsylvania. One of the chief points in its favor is its central location and should Bellefonte be chosen for the state's bureaucracy it would make CENTRE county the centre of the old Keystone not only geographically but in point of importance and attraction. There is no town in the state we think that would carry the honors of the governmental seat with more grace than thec ty of the "Beautiful Fountain". Should the buildings go up we hope it will be at Bellefonte.

LEGISLATIVE business was brisk in both Houses this week. A large number of bills were finally passed by the Senate and the House. Among the bills passed by the Senate were those providing for the payment of the expenses of the county commissioners incurred in the conveyance of indigent insane to state lunatic hospitals; to prevent unauthorized persons from wearing badges or other military devices; to transfer the supervision of insane from the board of charities to the committee on lunacy.

A resolution was adopted for the adjournment of the senate from to-day until next Wednesday.

In the House the bill providing for a bank examiner to regulate bank affairs, etc. was defeated by a vote of 76 to 71. The following bills were passed finally: To amend the sixth section of article 10 of an act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the anthracite coal mines of Pennsylvania and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith, approved the 30th day of June, A. D. 1885, to amend the second section of article one of the same bill to prevent the sale of intoxicating drinks on Decoration day; making an appropriation to the eastern state penitentiary for the salaries of officers, repairs, books and stationery, for library $81,850 and ten dollars to discharged convicts; an act making an appropriation of $96,000 for the support of the Pennsylvania institution for the instruction of the blind; to authorize an additional law judge of several courts of the Eighth Judicial district; to make provision for the compilation, printing and distribution of information relative to powers and franchise of certain corporations; to prevent the exemption of property on any judgement of fifty dollars or less obtained for boarding; to encourage and authorize the formation of co-operative associations, productive and distributive, by farmers, mechanics, laborers, and other persons; an act to regulate the practice of pharmacy and sale of poisons and to prevent adulteration in drugs and medicinal preparation in the state of Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 28, 1887.

Secretary Whitney has placed another brilliant feather in the cap of this Administration. Probably no Democrat, not even Samuel J. Tilden while living, ever received such unstinted praise from the Republican press as has been showered upon him during the past week. Nothing has been done by any member of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet since it was organized more calculated to win popularity than is the act of the Secretary of the navy by which the work of fortifying our seaports and building ironclads is established on a solid foundation.

From every side his energy and sagacity is applauded, the work he has done to beguile bidders to accept offered terms, and the ability he exhibits in directing the general work of his Department. It really looks too as if the name of Mr. Whitney would be associated in history with the building of the American Navy. The response to him was so prompt that the work of fitting up the Washington Navy Yard as an ordinance factory for the assembling and completion of heavy guns and steel forgings, will be begun soon and rapidly carried forward. Needless delays can be avoided because it is shown that the gun forgings and armor plates can be furnished in a much shorter time than was supposed.

For more than eighteen months Secretary Whitney has been industriously devising the means that make success possible. He has been studying the conditions of the problem— determining the needs of defensive armor, gauging the impact of projectiles, fixing on tests by which the Department will be governed, and making the inducements as at tractive as possible

It is to be hoped that there will be no more lamentations for the present over the failure of the Nayal bills. At least Secretary Whitney is satisfied with the outlook. He says the problem which puzzled everybody is solved, and that work of fortifying coasts and equipping ships is in as good shape as it would have been if the Senate bills had become laws.

Since I wrote you the long discussed Inter- State Commerce Commission has been completed, announced, commented upon, approved—and now it is about to organize and go to work. The five lawyers composing it, and who represent the States of Alabama, Illinois, Michigan, New York and Vermont, are practically placed in charge of private property valued at about seven thousand million dollars. This tremendous responsibility is greatly increased when it is remembered that almost the entire internal commerce of the country is affected by the action of this new court.

No one doubts the honesty of the commission, and they are all conceded to be men of ability, but their labors will be complex and comprehensive, the new law is a vast problem; every feature of its operations more or less perilous, and whatever is done, the Commission will be criticised and opposed on every side. The railroad men, shippers and travelers, producers and consumers are waiting to pour complaints, queries, communications and requests by thousands upon the Commissioners as soon as they are ready to receive them, and will make their lives burdensome of course.

The effect of the new law upon this city will be pronounced. Practically it gives the Capital a new Government Department. A large important bureau will be organized at once, a large clerical and official force will be appointed by the Commission, legal and other representatives of all the railroads in the United States will be drawn here, besides thousands of people interested in questions brought before the Commission. Altogether it will greatly add to the activity of the coming summer in Washington.

Miscellaneous News.

—What you need is a medicine which is pure, efficient, reliable. Such is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It possesses peculiar curative powers.

Two lawyers fought a duel in court at Newberry, S.C., the other day. The trouble arose from Jones calling Johnson a liar and the hot controversy resulted in both drawing their pistols and firing at each other. The end of the affray was the killing of Jones, who is but 21 years old. Johnson at once surrendered himself to the authorities.

Pension Claims Filing Up.

WASHINGTON, March 25. The commissioner of pensions, in a weekly report to the Secretary of the interior states that 287,137 applications are now before his office for adjudication. Claims are being filed at the rate of 6,000 a week, and the final adjudications number about 25,000.

Couldn't Meet a Note and Suicided.

MIFFLINTOWN, Pa., March 27.—Samuel Kennedy, a stone mason, residing a short distance west of Port Royal, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by hanging himself in a barn near his home. Before committing the deed he wrote a note, stating that he was in his right mind and had a note coming due on Monday which he was unable to meet, and for that reason he decided to commit suicide. He was aged about 60 years.

—I HAD KIDNEY DISORDER and say for the good of others that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cured me. Rev. S. C. Chandler, Lebanon Springs, N. Y. I had Stone in the Bladder and Gravel in the Kidneys. I used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and am now well.—E. D. Parsons, Rochester, N. Y. Price $1. Send 2 cent stamp to Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y., for a book on Kidney, Liver and Blood disorders. Another Case Where the Gun was Loaded.

Lock Haven, Pa., March 25.—Joseph Faron, a farmer living near Farrandsville, was examining his rifle last evening as he sat near the stove in his kitchen. He thought the gun was not loaded, but it was, and accidently discharged. The bullet struck the stove throwing the fragments of broken iron in all directions. His wife sat near the stove with the baby in her arms. Several pieces of iron struck her, one piece going through her cheek, and half dozen others making wounds on her neck and breast. None of the wounds are serious.

STRUGGLING FOR FOOD.

The Starving Passengers of the Scotia at the Castle Lunch Table.

NEW YORK, March, 27.—Five hundred and nineteen of the Italian passengers of the wrecked steamer Scotia, arrived at Castle Garden late this afternoon. The scene that followed beggared description. They rushed into the rotunda pell mell shrieking and howling for food like ravenous wolves. They crowded around the lunch tables, climbing over each other and tramping on helpless women and children. Pandemonium reigned supreme for fully an hour. The surging mob was utterly uncontrollable. Women and children were trampled on, crowded and pushed away. The officers of the garden aided in the distribution by throwing loaves over the heads of those nearest to the crowd. Every time a loaf was fired into the crowd twenty or more scrambled and in some cases fought to get it. That dry bread was a luxury was evident the way the starving people gorged themselves. In a short time all the food was gone except some bologna sausage. The women and children were cared for and milk and beer added to their portion.

William R. Travers, one of New York's millionaires, died in Bermunda on the 19th instant, and his body was brought to New York city for burial on Sunday. His fortune is estimated at $3,000,000.

An extensive cave-in occurred on Monday morning in this state by which the lands of the Fairmount coal company, near Pittston station, on the Delaware and Hudson railroad, were seriously affected. Large, gapping holes appeared that threatened to swallow up every thing within their reach. All the direct openings of the mine were closed by the crash and the ventilating machinery brought to a standstill, cutting off all air from the large number of mules stabled in the underground workings, all of which are now no doubt suffocated. The loss on property of the company will reach over 100 000. The track of the Delaware and Hudson railroad has sunk from ten to fifteen feet where it crosses the cave-in.

COLLIDING LOCOMOTIVES.

Eighteen Horses Killed by a Pennsylanvia Railroad Accident.

PHILADELPHIA, March 27,—A collision resulting in the loss of a number of valuable horses, occured last night about 9 o'clock on the Pennsylvania railroad a short distance above North Penn Junction. The stock train left Mantua at 8 o'clock, and was running at a good rate of speed as it neared the junction.

A shifting engine was on the same track at this point going slowly in the opposite direction. Before the engineer of the stock train could control it two locomotives came together with a terrible crash. The engineers jumped in time to save their lives. Engine No. 917, of the stock train, was badly damaged, as was also the shifting engine. The freight cars were badly wrecked, and eighteen horses that had been shipped from Lancaster to a firm in New York were either killed outright or so badly maimed that it was necessary to kill them. The loss from the accident will amount to several thousand dollars.

EASTON, Pa., March 27—A collision occurred on the New Jersey Central railroad near Rockport yesterday morning between a freight and a coal train which were going in opposite directions. William Dunlap, fireman of the coal train, was killed; Nathan Belford, engineer of the freight train, badly scalded and Howard Dehart, engineer of the coal train, severely injured. Both locomotives were wrecked, and over 20 cars damaged. The accident resulted from the failure of the coal train to wait for orders.

Telegraph and Messenger, Macon, Ga.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters" Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Excitement in Texas.

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris, Tex., by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Corley, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed, or raise his head; everybody said he was dying of consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief, he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of Pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds.
Trial Bottles of this Great Discovery for Consumption free at J. Eisenhuth's.

—We wish to remind advertisers that the subscription list of the JOURNAL is constantly going up and that the paper is consequently a good advertising medium. We do not give bogus figures when asked about circulation but are willing to lay open our list for the inspection of advertisers.

—Editors who are in possession of railroad passes use them for the last time to-day. The new law causes the railroad companies to stop issuing passes even to the newspaper scribes after the first of April. Under the circumstances it is a sort of satisfaction to us to know that we never enjoyed the luxury of a railroad pass.

—Mr. Conrad Immel dropped in to see us on Monday and in conversation casually gave us the information that he recently bought the Samuel Harter farm, near the Beaver Dam school house, in Gregg township, for $50 an acre. Mr. Immel is an industrious, hardworking man, and what he has he made by the sweat of his brow. But he gets there all the same.

—The public sale of George Peters' factory property on North street, to take place on the 9th of next month, will afford capitalists a splendid opportunity for a good investment. It is just the site for some manufacturing establishment, as it has sufficient water power to run almost any kind of machinery all the year round and several acres of ground to erect buildings thereon. We hope some one with the means and energy will take a hold of the property and convert it into a lively business block.

LOST.—"I don't know where, I can't tell when, I don't see how—something of great value to me, and for the return of which I shall be truly thankful, viz: a good appetite."

FOUND—"Health and strength, pure blood, an appetite like that of a wolf, regular digestion, all by taking that popular and peculiar medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. I want everybody to try it this season." It is sold by all druggists. One hundred doses one dollar.

—Before you go to bed to-night make up your mind to visit Musser's shoe store before buying elsewhere.

—We caution young men not to pay $3.50 to $4.00 for a calf shoe when they can buy the best men's shoes at from $2.50 to $3.00 at our store. J. H. MUSSER & SON.

—Durham Bros. & Co., at Coburn, have now opened the finest line of Cigars in this section. Their 2-fors have no equal. If you don't believe it, try 'em.

—Decidedly the sweetest thing out is the Southern Belle, at Durham Bros. & Co., Coburn. Bring your jugs along. Good butter 25 cts. Poor not wanted at any price.

—J. C. Harper, Esq., of Bellefonte, was in town on a flying visit to friends. He popped into the JOURNAL office for a few moments to say how do you do and good bye almost in one breath.

—Sam. Weiser, the tinner, seems to sail under an unlucky star. Yesterday forenoon, while cutting a piece of tin, he got the index finger of his left hand under the huge shears, and cut a large slice of the flesh off. If Sam don't stop cutting around his fingers he will have nothing left but stumps. As may be expected the wound is painful.

—The Reformed Ladies' Mite Society of Aaronsburg will hold an entertainment in the old church at that place on Saturday evening, April 9th. Special efforts are being made to prepare a programme that will be entertaining to all. Admission 10cts. Children under 15 years half price. Proceeds for the benefit of the church.

—If there is one thing above all others that needs be broken up in this town it is the abominable fashion of young men to stand in front of the church doors to wait on their best girls, thus forming a double line through which church goers must run the gauntlet. The new boro' ordinance fixes that matter to perfection.

—Miss Kate Musser, daughter of M. M. Musser, of Aaronsburg, circulated in town one day last week, for the purpose of raising a class of pupils in instrumental music. We have not heard with what success the lady met, but know that she is fully capable to give instructions in the art of music and hope she will get a large class.

—FOR scrofula, erysipelas, tetter, salt rheum, skin diseases, humors, sores, eruptions, pimples, blotches, swellings, tumors, boils, ulcers, scald head, ringworm, hives and all blood disorders, no remedy ever devised equals in efficacy and power McDonald's great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparillian Alternative. Warranted.

—J. D. Lose's new house on Penn street is nearly completed and he expects to move in about next week. This makes the third dwelling which James has erected on that street. The first two he sold and when he tires of the one he is building now he'll sell again and put up another one. Not a bad way to build up a town.

—Mrs. Brennen, of DuBois, has obtained judgement to the amount of $1200 against that borough for injuries received from a fall on a defective sidewalk. There are several boardwalks in this town where persons may get an ugly fall on account of rotten plank or loose spikes, and our council should take a warning from the above statement and take time by the forelock.

—Says neighbor Smith: "My little girl was pale and sickly, rapidly losing flesh, appetite variable, and sleep much disturbed. Her condition was becoming alarming. Was advised by a friend to try McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders. Administered three and she expelled the enormous number of 132 worms." Neighbor Smith now thinks McDonall's Worm Powders are the greatest vermifuges in existence.

—If we ever heard a real out and out soul stirring sermon it was that preached by Rev. Deitzler, in the Lutheran church last Sunday evening. He took his text from the 5th chapter of Matthew—20th verse and in his discourse worked out the forcible and fitting points in the most effective manner His congregation could hardly help to be benefitted by his remarks.

A CLEVER SET.—John M. Road, the stonemason, is well pleased with Messrs. Jon. Harter, Clayton Duck, Abe. King and Geo. Rupp, who volunteered to haul the lumber for his new house on Water street free of charge, and he desires us to publicly express his thanks to these gentlemen for their generosity. Nothing like having friends in the hour of need.

—The meeting of the General Council of the Aaronsburg Lutheran charge, which took place in the Luth. church on Penn street last Saturday was favored by bright and lovely weather, and the attendance was consequently large. We were unable to attend personally but are told that the programme was gone through with in a highly satisfactory manner and that the addresses were able and interesting.

A BOOM FOR HOWARD.—A half-interest in the Howard rolling mill, owned by B. Louth, was sold to a party from Chicago for $30,000. The new firm is to go into existence on the first of April, under the management of John Louth, son of B. Louth, who retains the remaining interest. The intention is to run four forge fires, eight puddling furnaces and a "bar mill," giving probably work to about fifty men. The mill had been idle for several years and this enterprise will put new impetus into the business of Howard borough.

—The Berwick Gazette has the following to say about W. G. Rook, the former landlord of the National, at this place:

The Cross Keys Hotel which recently passed into the hands of William G. Rook, is now thrown open to the public and everybody is invited to the parlor of this hotel and enjoy themselves. A beautiful piano and an organ occupy corners in the parlor and all are at liberty to go there and have a good time. The hotel is lighted throughout and it now looks as though it was being occupied. Heretofore the shutters were closed after night-fall and the place presented a lonely, dismal appearance. Mr. Rook kept hotel before he came to Berwick and what he don't know about the business is useless.

—Brother Ulrich, of the Centre County Times, must have been a little absent-minded when he took notes at the recent wedding at Penn Hall. In his account of that event he gives the name of the bride's father as J. B. Heckman, when it should have been J. F. Heckman. We are also reliably informed that the names of the bridesmaid and groomsman were not Emma Heckman and Cal. Musser, but Mary Heckman and D. G. Smith. Likely the editor's mental force was somewhat obscured by an overdose of wedding cake.

—Following is not as big a swindle as can be perpetrated with Bohemian oats, or wire fences, but it is ingenious and the farmers ought to look out for it: Two rogues watch the papers for estray notices, when one of them goes and looks at the animal. Of course on applying the unsuspecting farmer shows the beast, and the fellow decides it is not his; then he returns to his partner and describes it minutely to him. No. 2 goes to the farmer, and after proving by a thorough description that he is the owner of the animal, says he cannot take it away and offers to sell it at a bargain. The farmer buys it. And in a few days the rightful owner comes along and claims the animal, and of course the farmer is out just so much. —Watchman.

FOUND GUILTY.—The Union County Court just got through with a special term in which a case of burglary certified from Columbia county was tried. The defendant was Daniel F. Seibert, a man in his 67th year and an ex-member of the Legislature, who is charged with having feloniously broken and entered the house of Elizabeth Jackson, of Berwick on the night of August 25th, 1885, with intent to rob and carry away about $1000 worth of silverware. The case was hotly contested and created unusual interest. The commonwealth's chief witness was Charles Holland, a detective, whose services a number of citizens of Berwick had secured to ferret out the perpetrators of several robberies. Upon hearing the testimony on both sides and being charged by Judge Barnett, the jury, composed of twelve good citizens of Union county, rendered a verdict of "Guilty in manner and form as he stands indicted."

—The auditors' annual report of the financial doings of the council and the overseers of the poor of Millheim boro' appears on our second page. It will show for itself that the allegations of "Taxpayer" in last week's Reporter are incorrect, to say the least. He censures the council for extravagance, but forgets that former councils were obliged to expend much larger amounts of money for litigation, instigated by taxpayers, from which the borough derived far less benefit than from the Main street crossings. Again if "Taxpayer" has any experience in building or making improvements, and we think he has, he will know that calculations of the probable costs of such building hardly ever hold out and that when the job is finished the actual cost far exceeds his calculation. Would he call it extravagance? No, he would simply name it miscalculation and say no more about it. This is precisely the case with said crossings. They simply cost a little more than was first thought and hence the "squealing." Years ago two crossings were constructed at the same place that cost the borough nearly $100 and all will remember what kind of crossings they were. That looked like extravagance, but "taxpayer" had nothing to say then. That was evidently an altogether different case. As we have intimated before, the office of councilman in this borough is a very thankless position, as all those who had the honor (?) of serving in that capacity will testify.

—The following is an account given by the Clinton Democrat of a serious accident which happened to Mr. Lewis Dornblaser and wife, last week. The gentleman is a brother of Miss Puella Dornblaser, who is well-known to many of our readers:

Wednesday afternoon Lewis Dornblaser and wife, of near Clintondale, who were in this city buying groceries and other things, started for their home about half-past two o'clock in their two-horse carry-all. Everything went all right between here and the Mill Hall depot, and they were making good time on their way to their home when, alas! just after crossing the Bald Eagle Valley road and when about half way between that and the Beech Creek track, the horses frightened at an engine coming down the Bald Eagle track, near the water tank, and became uncontrollable. A disastrous runaway was the consequence. Mrs. Dornblaser, while her husband was attempting to manage the horses, reached for the brake to lock the wheels, thinking that might check the speed of the frightened animals, but in so doing she lost her balance and fell out of the vehicle, dislocating one of her shoulders and badly hurting herself otherwise. This happened at or near Stiver's, near the cross-roads, and the lady was picked up in an unconscious condition and carried to Mr. Stiver's house. The horses meanwhile continued on their mad career, with Mr Dornblaser still in the wagon, until they arrived in front of the Presbyterian church in Mill Hall, where the wagon was overturned and he was thrown out on the ground. He was picked up like his wife in an unconscious condition for the time being and carried first into Hunter's shoe store, where he was washed and cleaned up, after which he was taken into the Hunter residence, when it was found that his right arm was badly hurt, a gash cut in his upper lip, and it was feared that there was some internal injury to the right lung. After Dr. McEntyre had dressed Mrs. Dornblaser's wounds she was carried from Mr Stiver's house to Mr. Hunter's. The runaway team was caught in front of Shaffer's hotel, and sent on to Mr. Dornblaser's place. There was nothing broken about the carry all save the dash-board. The groceries and other articles purchased were scattered all along the road, but most of these were recovered.

A PAYING INVESTMENT.—At this season of the year when your cows fail in milk, your horses become rough in coat, your pigs refuse to thrive, the hens won't lay as many eggs as they should, you will find a package or two of McDonald's Celebrated Tonic and Blood Purifying Horse and Cattle Powders judiciously administered an investment that will pay its dividends. They are positively the best Horse and Cattle Powders made. Dissatisfied buyers can have their money refunded. What other manufacturer dare make this offer.

COBURN.

News has been scarce the past week.

On Monday last the first work toward erecting a new church was begun by getting out and hauling the stones for the foundation walls. Subscription books are now in the hands of parties authorized to take subscriptions and we understand they are meeting with success. So it should be, as a nice, neat and comfortable church will be a credit to our little village.

Squire Gettig makes daily trips between Coburn and Spring Mills and is a daily visitor to the distillery here where he is employed by Uncle Sam as storekeeper.

Harry VanValin left for Renovo on Tuesday, to enter the machine shops there and learn the trade of machinist.

The saw mill has closed down for a few days on account of the extremely cold weather.

We noticed three cars being loaded with household goods at our station on Monday. One by H. J. Crouse, of Aaronsburg, bound for Lock Haven; P. Rearick's, of Millheim, who went to Snyder county, and Henry Snavely's, of Greenburr, billed for Safe Harbor, Pa.

J. F. Torbert, of Williamsport, spent Sunday last in this village.

Report says we will have another ice cream parlor this coming summer. The west end of town is to be the site for the same. One more in the centre of town and Main street will be well supplied with street lamps.

Thos. G. W. Edmunds moved into the Hotel on last Tuesday. We are quite sure Thomas will keep a first-class house. He has plenty of git up and get there.

Messrs. Geo. Bollinger and C. W. Burd have created quite a stir in our little burg with their patent washer, and it's no humbug either. We predict for them a large sale of washers in the near future.

Geo. S. Smith and bride have gone to Niagara Falls and from there expect to go to Dakota, Ill., where they will go to housekeeping at once. We would say for the happy couple that the groom is well and favorably known to the people of his western home, and his charming wife, who will appear there as a stranger, is a lady in every respect whom we commend to the western people with all confidence. A large crowd of neighbors had gathered at the station to see them off and wish them well during life's journey. May their shadow never grow less.

John H. Leitzell who is in the employ of the Penna R. R. Co. moves from this place to Bellefonte this week.

Prof. Hosterman expects to teach a term of school in this place during summer.

D. H. Runkle will take up his abode at the Penns Caves this summer. He is engaged by the proprietors to manage the affairs at the cave and the hotel connected with it. Being an active and pleasant young man he is just the fellow for the place. *

—Drop in and take a look at Stover's fine sugars.

PENN HALL.

On account of Denver Dan's visit to his former home, Denver, Colo., he was unable to report last week's happenings.

During my absence from home the wedding mentioned in last week's JOURNAL took place. The happy couple started for their home on Monday's afternoon train. Denver Dan wishes them health, wealth, happiness, joy and a rapidly increasing posterity.

Henry Hoffman, an experienced German tailor, is doing some work in and about town.

Andrew Rote, of Farmers' Mills, is again working for M. H. Guise, the carpenter.

Maggie, a daughter of Henry Swartz, is maid at Henry Keen's.

B. F. Frankenberger, while booming a load of hay, strained his shoulder, which causes him much pain at times.

John Harshberger was called to Nittany Valley last Friday to the side of his mother who had a severe fall.

John Road, of Millheim, tore down and moved the old log house which stood in front of John Kimport's new house, to that place. Kimport's house presents a fine appearance since the old building is out of sight.

Last Thursday Al. Keen moved below Aaronsburg, on Harter's farm, vacated by Bailey.

On Tuesday F. P. Duck moved to Brushvalley and Jerry Snook into the house vacated by Duck. It was a fearful cold day to move and one of Frank's little boys, about 3 years old, nearly froze. JUMBO.

A few of our young men were evidently neglected in their home training. But it is not too late yet to improve their manners when mingling with other people in the stores and public places.

Jared Kreamer moved to town on Tuesday and has become the main stay of his father and mother.

David Moyer, of Centre Hall, at a recent horse sale at that place, bought one of the finest horses for Daniel Kreamer, of this town. Dave should buy up carloads of such horses and ship them. It would pay him better than shipping cows.

The farmers occupy their time at present with greasing and fixing up their horse gears and harness for summer.

George Swartz, of Bellefonte, a popular life insurance agent, circulated in town one day last week.

Ammon Strayer, agent for enlarging pictures, is doing lots of business.

Robert Diehl, who gathered up cream through here for the Spring Mills creamery, has stepped down and out and Cornelius Stoyer, the teacher, takes up the business.

Daniel Royer and Wm. Kreamer had quite a race to come to time one day last week. They attended a horse sale at Vicksburg, but couldn't suit themselves and concluded to return home in the afternoon train. The train was due before they were aware of it and in order to make time they took a short cut across the fields, running for all there was in it, and just reached the top rail of a fence when the iron horse came steaming along. They used their hats as a danger signal, when the engineer took pity on them and the two stragglers were taken on board out of breath, but happy. Gel Bill, des beat aw der Divel?

Mrs. Lucy Brumgart was very ill last week but is fast recovering at this writing.

Daniel Royer, agent for the Susquehanna Pure Bone phosphate, is filling orders promptly.

TOLEDO, O., JAN. 10, 1887.

Messrs. F. J. Cheney & Co.—Gentlemen:—I have been in the general practice of medicine for most 40 years, and would say that in all my practice and experience, have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions. Yours truly,

Miscellaneous News.

THE WATER STILL RISING.

SEVERAL INDIANS BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN DROWNED IN DAKOTA.

BOWDLE, Dak., March 24.—The water has backed in Swan creek and carried off the bridge between Lebanon and Scranton, and flooded the bottom lands eight feet deep. It is believed that several Indians have been drowned. The family of Garett Barry escaped with their lives and lost their cattle and household effects. The steamer General Tomkins is in the ice a total wreck. The Missouri is steadily rising.

A Train Goes Through a Bridge.

LYNCHBURG, Va., March 24.—A train on the Norfolk and Western railroad went through the big Otter river bridge this afternoon. It is stated that eight persons were killed, but the particulars cannot be obtained. A wrecking train with physicians has gone to the scene of the disaster. The bridge was in process of repair and eight or nine workmen were killed and several others wounded. None of them were train hands as far as known. The engine and several cars crossed the bridge safely before the structure gave way.

Burning the Tramps.

About Three Hundred Put to Death in a Chinese Town.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—Steamer Belgic, which arrived to-day from China and Japan, brought news of a dreadful tragedy at Hisia Shib, China, twenty miles northeast of Hongebow. Over three hundred tramps appeared in the village and the inhabitants being greatly irritated by their presence, inveigled the whole body of tramps into into the temple and during the night set fire to the edifice. Only forty of the tramps escaped from the blazing building, the remainder being burnt to death.

Thrilling Incidents of the Flood.

BISMARK, Dak., March 24.—All attemps to break the Sibley island gorge with dynamite are unavailing. A man was seen last evening riding down the river on a cake of ice, frantically calling for help, but it was impossible to assist him. Twelve families near Lictonia had a most thrilling experience, after being on the roofs of the houses for twenty-four hours, a thin crust formed over the river, and on this they walked to the shore two miles, some breaking through several times, but being rescued. Fort Lincoln army officers here are still of the opinion that the people opposite the post, on the lowlands south of the city, perished in the flood. This belief is becoming prevalent, and as the reports come in from remote river districts the story of suffering and loss of life is intensified.

The Nanticoke School Board Break into a Church.

A Case Which is Creating Considerable Excitement in the Thriving Mining Town.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 24.—Before daylight this morning the members of the Nanticoke school board, with the aid of a large force of workmen, broke open the bethel of the Congregational church, threw out all the furniture and tore down the building. They claimed the right to do this under the will of the late John Mills, who left the land for school or church purposes, and it is claimed further that the church society never obtained legal possession. The action of the school board has created intense excitement in Nanticoke. The church trustees declare that they intend having every member of the board arrested on criminal charges, and that they will also sue the school board for heavy damages.

Died From Fright.

A Married Lady Becomes Hysterical on Discovering a Stranger in Her Home.

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—Mrs. Thersa Weist died suddenly early this morning at her home, 1539 North Twenty-fourth street, under pecullar circumstances, and Willian Adair, a street car conductor, aged 36 years, has been arrested on suspicion of having caused her death, which is supposed to have resulted from fright. Adair about midnight visited the saloon kept by Mrs. Weist's husband and asked permission to go up stairs to see two old ladies who lived on the third floor. A few moments later Mrs. Weist's cries in her room on the second floor were responded to by her husband and she informed him that Adair had been in her room. She became hysterical and died in about a half hour. Adair was arrested at about 10 o'clock this morning and held to wait an investigation.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 182 Fulton Street, N. Y.

WE ALL know the story of the Turkish Cadi who held that there was always a woman at the bottom of every trouble. On one occasion there appeared before him one of his officers, who stated that a certain man had fallen out of the window and killed himself.

"Where is the woman ?" asked the Cadi.

'It was a man, your sublime highness," responded the officer.

"Where is the woman ?" reinterated the Cadi.

"It was a man, your ecstatic nobleness," humbly reinterated the officer.

"Where is the woman ?" fiercely demanded the Cadi.

"I tell you it was a man who killed himself, your effulgent radiance," roared the officer.

Then an explanation followed, when it turned out that the man was leaning out of his window to look at a woman, a few doors off, when he lost his balance and fell to the ground.

"Ah !" cried the Cadi, triumphantly, "I knew there was a woman at the bottom of it ; there always is."

AN UNFATHOMABLE MYSTREY. —I watched a woman weighing herself in a grocery store the other day. She had just purchased a pound package of saleratus and had it in her hand when she stepped on to the scales.

'Why, I've gained a pound!' she remarked to herself, when she had finished manipulating the weights.

Then remembering her salertaus, she exclaimed:

"Oh, Lord! I forgot I had this," and hastily popped the package into her pocket.

Then she began to work the weights and wondered why she could get no different result. When she left the store with knitted brow, she was evidently trying to fathom the mystery.
